The members of the Indiana chapter all attend the College of Musical Arts in Indianapolis.

ELECTION DID NOT COST MEN ONE CENT

Expense Accounts Filed With County Clerk Show Carthage Officers Never Spent Any Money.

DIDN'T EVEN BUY ANY CIGARS

The first of the certified statements of expenses from candidates who were elected in the town elections of Nov. 7, were filed today with the county clerk. The affidavits were from the newly elected officers in Carthage. R. E. Henley, trustee of the Fifth ward, Alonzo Kizer, trustee of the Second ward, Jesse H. Siler, trustee of the First ward, Jasper Parrish, marshal, and J. A. Lineback, clerk and treasurer, in sworn affidavit state that they did not contribute money or make any promises in any way to gain the nomination or election. The filing of the expense accounts is in accordance with a law passed by the last legislature known as the "Corrupt Practice Act." The candidates in Glenwood, the only other incorporated town in the county, have not filed statements.

CHRISTMAS TREES WILL BE PLENTIFUL

Rushville Dealers Receive Big Shipments This Week and They Bring Usual Prices.

COMING INTO GENERAL USE

Christmas trees are said to be very plentiful this year. Local dealers received some today and they will remain at the usual price, a ten-foot tree selling for about 75 cents. A great quantity of the trees come from Canada, and no shortage has been reported. There are various sizes to choose from in the consignments received here.

Christmas trees are coming into more general use with the passing of each year. There are but very few families now who do not have their own Christmas tree, all nicely decorated, from which presents for each member of the family is displayed. Those trees for family use range in size from two and one-half to twelve feet in height, according to the desire of the persons erecting it. The local dealers are expecting to be able to fill all orders.

TAKES LEAP OF ITS YOUNG LIFE

Santa Claus Fund Today Goes to $124.95 And $150 Mark Will Soon be Reached.

GIRLS' EXCHANGE HELPS LOTS

Princess Theater Will Have Special Program at Benefit Show Thursday Night.

Previously Acknowledged....$80.10 Florence May Warfield 10 B. Y. C. D. Class of U. P. Sunday School 1.75 S. L. Trabue 1.00 High School Girls Exchange 31.00 Albert L. Winship 5.00 Ell Jones 1.00 Cash 5.00 Total $124.95

The Daily Republican's Santa Claus fund of 1911 took the leap of its young life today by reaching a total which same as a big surprise to the managers and which will be a greater surprise to the people of Rushville who have watched its slow rise in the last few weeks with interest.

There seems to be little doubt now but what the fund will set a new mark this year. Last year it went to $153 which was a few dollars greater than the total of 1909. This year will doubtless be greater than both of these.

The Princess theater's benefit show which is arranged for Thursday night will add a good sum to the already growing fund. The Princess will arrange a special program for the event and a good attendance is assured. The Princess management will contribute all proceeds of the night over and above the actual running expenses.

For its remarkable leap today the fund is largely indebted to the six high school girls who conducted an exchange in R. F. Sudder's office on Saturday. They made $31 which is the largest amount which has ever been made or donated by any one organization or person since its origin. To say that the managers of the fund and the local charity workers are thankful for the help of the six girls is putting it very mildly.

The buying will be brought to a close this week and the wrapping will be started. The next problem which confronts the managers is to obtain conveyances to deliver the gifts.

REPORTED TO BE MISSING

Elijah Matney Said to Have Disappeared Since Divorce Proceedings.

The rumor was current here today that Elijah Matney, a prominent farmer of Noble township, against whom a suit for divorce and five thousand dollars alimony was filed by his wife, Clara Matney, in circuit court, last Thursday, has suddenly disappeared as if the earth had swallowed him. It is said that his wife and relatives know nothing of his whereabouts. It was not expected that that the case would come up for trial this term.

Nobody has access in a social way to King George of England without a previous appointment. A secretary keeps a card index system, which gives the history in brief of all society people, and the king always has time to consult this private directory. ELECTIONS ARE DULL AFFAIRS

Several Close Finishes Mark Naming of New District Read Supervisors in Townships.

WARM FIGHT IN RICHLAND

Charles Vogel Beats John Ryan by Four Votes—Majority Are Republicans.

The election of road supervisors passed off quietly Saturday and was noted for the heavy vote cast. A majority of the men elected are Republicans, but politics played a minor part in the election. All of the returns have not yet been filed in the auditor's office.

Several hot fights were waged between the candidates and one of these was in Richland township. Here Charles Vogel defeated John Ryan by four votes. Vogel got 40 votes and Ryan, 36. Ryan was a candidate for re-election and it is said that the part he played in a recent prosecution for heavy hauling was against him. Ryan took the stand against heavy hauling on requests from his friends and it was thought this would make no difference in his re-election, but the "dope" was wrong. In this district a heavy vote was polled and both candidates worked hard for election.

Several other close contests were noted. In district number 2, Rushville township, there were three candidates and James Shanahan finally won. In district 4, Albert Capp won by a majority of 6 votes from his closest opponent, Dave Sloan, who had 11 votes.

The men elected in several of the townships are as follows:

Rushville—No. 1, Isom Stevens; No. 2, James Shanahan; No. 3, George Foster; No. 4, Albert Capp. Noble—No. 1, James Perkins; No. 2, John F. McKee.

Jackson—No. 1, Roll E. Rogers; No. 2, John D. Whitton; No. 3, Dora Daniel; No. 4, Ithamer McCarty.

Center—No. 1, James Stewart; No. 2, William Bowen; No. 3, William B. McDaniel; No. 4, Albert W. Bowles.

Union—No. 1, W. L. Hall; No. 2, William Hier; No. 3, J. J. Clifton; No. 4, John H. Morford.

Washington—No. 1, Charles Moler; No. 2, Charles Miller; No. 3, William Coleman; No. 4, L. G. Hayes.

Richland—No. 1, Charles Vogel; No. 2, Lee Hite.

CONTINUE BIG CAMPAIGN

Men's Bible Classes Vie With Each Other For Members.

The Men's Bible classes of three Sunday schools of the city continue in their campaign for new membership and it is bearing fruit in all three churches. The members of the class of the Main Street Christian church numbered sixty when they assembled at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning and were the guests of the men's class. The hosts numbered forty three. The Men's Bible class of the St. Paul M. E. Sunday school excelled the other two classes in attendance yesterday when the roll called showed seventy-four names.

ORGANIZATION IS GIVEN IMPETUS

At Men's Mass Meeting Sunday Plans Are Laid For Men and Religion Movement.

BIG COMMITTEE TO BE NAMED

Indianapolis Speakers Find Rushville in Accord With Organization And Ready to Help.

At the men's mass meeting at the St. Paul M. E. church yesterday afternoon an interdenominational committee of ten members, two from each of the churches of the city was named to select the larger committee which will have in charge the Men and Religion Forward Movement in this city. This constituted the formal launching of the movement of national scope in this city. The meeting was a very enthusiastic one.

The committee of ten men met yesterday afternoon after meeting and agreed to hold a session again in the St. Paul M. E. church Wednesday evening. At that time the big committee may be named. If this is not done the number of members who will comprise the committee will be determined. The ministers of the city will meet with the committee.

The committee is composed of J. W. Gartin and Frank Early of the First Baptist church; Owen L. Carr and E. B. Thomas of the St. Paul M. E.; Thomas M. Green and Howard E. Barrett of the United Presbyterian; Joseph L. Cowing and Ralph Payne of the First Presbyterian, and B. F. Miller and John A. Titworth of the Main Street Christian.

Two speakers from Indianapolis talked on the scope and intent of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, their aim being to give the men of Rushville a more comprehensive view of the organization. Dr. J. W. House, a physician of Indianapolis, made the first talk, and he was followed by R. E. Brewer, a real estate and insurance man of Indianapolis. The addresses of both men were interesting and to the point. The executive secretary of the committee of one hundred men of Indianapolis, who has in charge the work of the Movement in the Capitol city, expected to be here yesterday, but was unavoidably detained.

The men of Rushville entered heartily into the spirit of the Movement and assured the Indianapolis men that they would gladly take up the work here and conduct it in Rushville.

This assurance was voiced by three ministers, the Rev. Cyrus Yocom of the Main Street Christian church, the Rev. J. B. Meacham of the First Presbyterian, and the Rev. W. H. Wylie of the St. Paul M. E. At the close of the speeches of explanation by the two Indianapolis men, the ministers were called on in order.

The Rev. John B. Meacham spoke briefly and in a very happy vein. He said that he felt sure the men of Rushville were in hearty accord with the Movement and he assured the Indianapolis representatives of the Movement that they would find Rushville no slouch. He urged that they view the business district of Rushville before they left and then they would realize what a thriving metropolis Rushville really is. He said the new cluster lights are only indicative of the material growth of the city, but that the city spiritually had kept pace with the material city. He declared that Rushville intended to let her light shine on—even more brightly than do the pedestal lights. He recalled that he has been here but a little over a year, but that in that time the spirit of co-operation and good will among the Christian men of Rushville has increased won-

MAJORITY ARE GOING TO HADES

The Rev. Arvin Says More Church Members Are Headed That Way Than Toward Heaven.

TALKS ON "SECRET ORDERS"

Characterizes Man Who is Their Opponent as a Fool—Eulogizes Lodges in General.

Characterizing the man who speaks disparagingly of secret orders as a fool and asserting that more people in the church of God today go to hell than to heaven, the Rev. J. F. Arvin, pastor of the First Baptist church spoke last night on "Secret Orders" before a crowd that filled the auditorium of the church and which was composed largely of members of Rushville lodges.

The Rev. Mr. Arvin dwelt on his text for a time and then launched forth on his chosen topic. He said that he had not the time or disposition to dig back in the history of the lodges except to remark that they were organized years ago for philanthropic purposes.

The Rev. Mr. Arvin declared that most lodge opponents have no more than two reasons for being opposed to lodges, namely. Because they conduct their business behind closed doors and because there are so many members who are not fit to belong.

The minister eulogized the lodges and it is his opinion that secret orders are second only to the church of God. He declared that it is true many unworthy members creep into secret orders but that is true, he said of every organization. It was then that he made his startling assertion, based on no facts to back it up, that more church members today are going to hell than to heaven.

"If this were not the case," he continued, "we could turn the world over to Christ and there would be no need of secret orders."

The Rev. Mr. Arvin said that he has found a preacher who disapproves very much of secret orders. He declared that he told the preacher he was a fool for taking such a stand and that he would do well to keep quiet on that topic henceforth. The Rev. Mr. Arvin said he thought the preacher took his advice and he did not know whether the minister ever got into a lodge.

It was the minister's assertion that the secret order man is never made behind closed doors. He declared that the secret order man goes through the ceremony such as riding the goat and climbing the soap pole because he is a secret order man.

The minister reiterated several times that lodges of today were founded on the Gospel and that their ritual is replete with scripture. He asserted that he had learned more scripture since he had been a member of secret orders than he did because he was a student in the Baptist theological school.

The Rev. Mr. Arvin stated that he knows more about the Masonic lodge than any other and that he holds the Masonic lodge second only to the church of Christ. He declared that secret orders uplift the nation's morals and are assisting the cause of universal peace.

"I urge you lodgemem," said the Rev. Mr. Arvin, "to strive and attempt to show the world that there is something in secret orders. Besides that which is conducted behind closed doors."

Representatives of the local lodges of Knights of Pythias and Modern Woodmen attended in a body and other lodges of the city were represented in the audience.

DICTAPHONE IS USED IN COURT

Judge Van Fleet Admits It As a Witness.

THE GARY BRIBERY TRIAL

Records of Alleged Conversations Transcribed by Dictaphone Are Used in the Trial at Crown Point of Gary Councilman Charged With Accepting a Bribe For His Vote in Granting a Valuable Franchise.

Crown Point, Ind., Dec. 18.—Starting evidence developed in the bribery trial of Councilman Walter Gibson of Gary. T. B. Dean and three others appeared as witnesses. The feature was the introduction of the dictaphone records of the conversation between Dean and Gibson, following the ruling of Judge Van Fleet that they might be introduced word for word. Dr. H. H. Hosmer of Gary, one of the men on the other end of the dictaphone wire; Meyer Himmelblau, the stenographer who was with him and who recorded the conversation, and City Clerk Harry Moose attested to Gibson's election and to the passage of the Dean heating franchise by the council.

Himmelblau read the dictaphone records, which contained many references to the Geist franchise. They contained alleged statements by Gibson to Dean that Mayor Knott was "broke" and needed money; that Alderman Castleman, hitherto unmentioned in the bribery allegations, wanted $1,000 for his vote; that Gibson did not want Alderman Bauskis, one of the men indicted for bribery, to handle any money for Gibson because the latter was an endorser of Bauskis' note; that Gibson would vote for the Dean franchise and nothing could stop him; and a prediction that Wall street would "skin" Julian Youchea, Crown Point banker, who, he said, inherited $1,000,000, in six months.

BLOODHOUNDS ON TRAIL

Run Down Negro Alleged to Be Lafayette Girl's Assailant.

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 18.—In the capture of Nathaniel Towles, a negro, who, it is alleged, cut the throat of Miss Iva O'Connell, bloodhounds were successfully used.

Miss O'Connell is employed at a telephone exchange, and on her way home was attacked by a negro. She screamed, and her assailant, after wrestling with her, released his hold and fled. The girl ran into a house near by, and it was found that the negro had used a knife in his attack. Blood was streaming down her coat and there was a gash four inches long on her neck. A physician was summoned and four stitches were taken to close the wound.

The police placed the dogs on the scent, and within twenty minutes they located a colored man five squares from the scene of the assault. He was brought before Miss O'Connell, and she said she was almost positive that he was her assailant.

KENTUCKY ASSEMBLY FACES BITTER FIGHT

Wet and Dry Forces Clash Over Platform Measure.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 18.—The opinion among local politicians is that a strenuous effort will be made to defeat the Democratic platform county unit bill, which was urged upon the general assembly by Governor James B. McCreary in his inaugural address.

Main street, in Louisville, dominates the whisky business of the country in many ways, but it is not from the distillers, at least directly, that the opposition to the county unit bill is expected. Every influence that can be brought to bear against the bill will center in the state senate. The house is conceded to the "drys," and, as he made his race on a platform promising the county unit bill, Governor McCreary is sure to sign the measure if it passes the assembly. But in the senate half the membership consists of hold-over senators, all Democrats, and not one of them pledged to the platform on which the party won its recent victory in this state.

If the bill can be held up in the senate, in committee, or defeated by open vote, its opponents will have a breathing space. It is not county unit that they fear so greatly, but the precipitation of a fight for state-wide prohibition.

The present law was a compromise measure, enacted with a provision exempting cities from the county unit.

CHILDREN MARRIED

Bristol's "Marrying Parson" Came to Relief of Youthful Elopers.

Sargent, Ky., Dec. 18.—After pleading in vain with his sweetheart's father to permit them to marry, Kim dred Hartit, aged seventeen, met little Miss Louie Bates, a schoolgirl barely thirteen, at midnight, and the couple eloped afoot. After traveling all night and next day over muddy soggy mountain roads, they reached Appalachia, Va., the nearest railroad station, thirty-five miles away, where they boarded a train for Bristol, Tenn., seventy miles.

Arriving at Bristol Sunday night, the couple were married by "Squire Burroughs," the marrying parson. Today a fast express carried them to Appalachia, whence they will hike back over the mountains to ask parental blessings.

No Trace of Missing Murderer.

Troy, N. Y., Dec. 18.—The authorities seem to be as much at sea as to the whereabouts of the murderer of the four members of the Morner family as they were when the bodies were discovered in the cow barn. While suspicion still points strongly to the guilty of the missing farmhand Donato the authorities are working along a theory that someone else may have committed the crime and that Donato too, was a victim. Following this theory, the well on the Morner farm was dragged for the Italian's body, but no trace was found there.

Conflict Between Wets and Drys.

Richmond, Ind., Dec. 18.—The fight to have Jackson township and Cambridge City made "wet" will be taken up in the commissioners' court here tomorrow. The "drys" have engaged four attorneys and the "wets" two.

The "drys" will attempt to show the remonstrance last year was valid, while the "wets" are attempting to show that fraud was practiced.

Victim of Crossed Wire.

Logansport, Ind., Dec. 18.—Cornelius W. Peacher, Vandalia passenger fireman, was electrocuted at his home when he placed his hand upon an electric light switch. A high tension wire from the city electric light department had crossed the wire leading into Peacher's home, and when he touched the switch he received the full charge.

Body Dragged by Train.

Lebanon, Ind., Dec. 18.—While walking on the Big Four track enroute to Zionsville to visit a sick daughter, Jacob W. Jones, farmer, sixty-five years old, residing near Zionsville, was run down by a through freight and instantly killed. The body was dragged 100 feet and rolled down an embankment, where it was found two hours later.

WASH YOUR RICE FIRST--BARNARD

State Health Board Chemists Have Busy Time During Fiscal Year Ending September.

181 PUBLIC SUPPLY SOURCES

Fifty-five Per Cent of Shallow Wells For Private Supply Unfit For Use.

During the fiscal year which closed September 30, the water laboratory of the state board of health analyzed 1,053 samples of water from various parts of the state. Of these 573 were from shallow wells, 293 from deep wells, 60 from springs, and the remainder from cisterns, streams, etc.

Of the total number examined, 622 were in good condition, 200 were bad, and the remainder were of doubtful quality.

Of the total, 181 were from public water supply sources. Of eighty-eight deep wells of this class examined, two were bad and ten of doubtful quality. Of fourteen shallow wells, thirteen were good and one bad. Of twenty-eight streams used for public water supply, twenty-one were in good condition, one was bad and six doubtful. All the samples from springs were good. Of pond waters, sixteen out of twenty-one samples were pronounced good and the remainder doubtful.

The report of the department sets out that the public water supplies of the state are for the most part satisfactory.

Eight hundred and seventy-two samples from private supplies were examined, of which 559 were from shallow wells and 205 from cisterns, the remainder from springs and cisterns.

Of the deep wells, 166 were found good, of the shallow wells, only 252 were found good. Fifty-five per cent of shallow wells used for private supply were pronounced unfit for use.

A special study was made of water used at schoolhouses. Twenty-five of these supplies are from deep wells and twenty-nine from shallow wells.

Twenty-one of the twenty-five deep wells are in good condition, three were classed as bad and one as doubtful. Twenty-four of the shallow well waters are in good condition, four bad and one doubtful. These results indicate for the most part a satisfactory condition of the well supply. There are, however, too many bad samples to justify the assumption that the schoolhouse well is not occasionally polluted, says the report.

Chief Chemist For State Board of Health Issues Circular Letter Over State.

HE WARNS THE HOUSEWIVES

Says Rice Should Never be Cooked Until it is Carefully Cleaned—

Reasons For It.

H. E. Barnard, chief chemist for the State board of health, has issued a warning to housewives of the State against cooking rice without first washing it thoroughly to remove whatever coating it may contain.

"Nearly all the rice purchased at the grocery stores in Indiana is coated," said Mr. Barnard. "To provide the coating, the grain is first covered with glucose, and then rolled in talc. Now talc is all right for face powder, but it is a very poor thing to use in the stomach and intestines. Glucose is not much better. The housewife who dumps her rice into the cooking pan without first removing the glucose and talc is threatening her family with serious intestinal trouble.

"The coating on the rice is put there to make it look better in response to the well-known demand of the average housewife for good looking foodstuff. The coated rice costs more than the uncoated, but it seems the housewife is willing to pay more because it looks better. The coating doesn't hurt the rice, and the coated rice will not hurt the consumer, provided the housewife removes the coating before cooking.

"The coating may be removed easily either by washing in very hot water or by soaking in cold water overnight. One plan is as good as the other, but if hot water is used the housewife should use care to see that the hot water doesn't injure the rice grain."

Insurance Hazards Multiply Owing to Special Christmas Displays And Inflammable Decorations.

CARE SHOULD BE EXERCISED

Trees May Be Installed to They Can Not be Overturned—"No Smoking" Rules.

Fire insurance hazards multiply during the holiday season, owing to special electrical displays, Christmas trees in stores and show windows, and a liberal use of cotton-snow and other inflammable decorations. Every merchant should be especially careful about fire hazards at this time, not only because of the danger of interfering with his trade at the most profitable season of the year, but because of his responsibility to the public through endangering the lives of the holiday throngs. The most serious hazards at holiday time is the Christmas tree filled with lighted tapers and likely to be overturned, and the hurried electric wiring put up for special displays.

Trees should be installed so that they cannot possibly be overturned, and electric lights should be used in place of candles. The latter are always dangerous, especially after the tree gets dried out in a warm room. Electric lighting fires are due almost invariably to the practice of allowing employes not familiar with the electric hazard to install displays in stores and other places. The wires are frequently run over nails, which wear off the insulation and start blazes; cotton batting and tinsel is allowed to come into contact with lamps and their receptacles, and circuits are frequently overloaded by special displays and thus made dangerous.

The boards of underwriters are glad to pass upon all holiday electric lighting plans in order to diminish the losses from fire, and merchants generally should confer with their insurance men and should be certain that the electric wiring is done by competent men. Otherwise they may impair their fire insurance protection as the policies provide that if there is a material increase in hazard, without permission, the insurance shall be void. The holiday season is a good time for merchants to begin to enforce "no smoking" rules, and to be especially careful about the prompt removal of boxes, paper and all inflammable rubbish.

Christmas Shopping.

The Christmas spirit may find expression in the buying of gifts as well as in the distribution of them.

Thoughtful selection of such times for shopping as will admit of the comfort of the salesfolk will enable the shopper not only to get better satisfaction but to give satisfaction in a way that is consonant with the season.

Christmas shopping may be pleasure if done properly. It ought to be a joy instead of a dreaded task.

To be such it must done early, before the best things are gone and before the rush begins. Sensible shoppers scarcely need to be reminded that the days now coming will be extremely busy ones at the stores.

If people would comprehend the real meaning of the chant of the angels at the first Christmastide, they would not delay making their purchases until the last crowded moment. They would keep in mind that the salesfolk, sorely overworked at this season, are entitled to some of the good will.

Every day now will add to the crowds and the tension, for it goes without saying that the mass of people never heed advice on such matters.

The few who do, however, will have ample reason to congratulate themselves upon satisfactory shopping and will also have the additional cheerful reflection that they have not unnecessarily added to the hard labors of the salespeople at their hardest time of the year.

Be good to yourself and the salespeople by avoiding the rush.

Be good to your friends by buying their gifts while the choicest things are yet in the stores.

Announcement comes from Chicago that the business men throughout the nation may be urged to form a new political party to fight for legislation which they say will quiet presidential industrial unrest, reform the currency system, force peace between capital and labor and institute a business man's administration of affairs.

Past experience has amply demonstrated that the politicians for the sake of gaining votes in certain quarters, they will cater to this or that element regardless of the general welfare of the country at large.

It would be well for political parties at their coming convention to pass such resolutions as will curb this tendency. The tariff, currency question and the strife between labor and capital, and other purely business questions, should be intelligently and scientifically regulated, and when once regulated should not be disturbed. As it is, the politicians keep the country in a constant turmoil.

George Lockwood, of the Marion Chronicle, is rather severe on Edwin M. Lee. He pronounces him a traitor and urges that he be retired from the State chairmanship. He says in part:

"Chairman Lee by his voluntary act, the outcome of a sudden change of heart which needs a better explanation than has yet been given, has not placed himself beyond the pale of possibility for re-election as his own successor, but has ended his usefulness as chairman of the Republican State Committee. If the members of the committee have a proper regard for the welfare of the Republican party in this State they will at once assemble and summarily remove a man who is using the headquarters of the State committee as a place of origin for emanations which are calculated if they are not intended, to make Republican success in Indiana next year impossible, regardless of the outcome of the next Republican National convention.

Chairman Lee knows that there is little doubt that President Taft will be renominated to succeed himself, and his words constitute aid and comfort to the enemy which can only be defined as treason to the party and to the organization of which he is temporarily the head."

It is not certain that the attitude of Mr. Lee will not contribute to party harmony. At least there is harmony, apparently, in the conclusion that Chairman Lee is an awful misfit and should go away back to Lawrenceburg and sit down."

It used to be regarded good policy for Congress to pursue a do-nothing policy. There is a growing feeling that the congressmen were sent to Washington to do something other than furnish speeches to fill the Congressional Record.

When a farmer is prosperous for several years in succession he usually buys another farm. The United States has prospered wonderfully in the last decade, but the nation has no need of additional territory.

This far none of our presidential candidates has gone across a neighboring border to organize his campaign. And Champ Clark certainly will not go to Canada.

Charles W. Zike, as administrator of the estate of Amelia Shinn, deceased, has brought suit against Harry R. Shinn and Joseph A. Shinn, on a petition for an order to sell real estate for payment of debts.

Tom Scanlan Sets to Music "The Evening Prayer," a Poem by Miss Marie C. Oemler.

TO BE SUNG AT LOCAL THEATER

Where Does Champ Rank?

"Statesmen," said Speaker Champ Clark at the beefsteak dinner at Kansas City, "may be divided into three classes. Those smaller than their reputations, those greater than their reputations, and those equal to their reputations," Mr. Clark might have added that no statesmen are born with reputations, and some have reputations thrust upon them.

Tom Scanlan received word today that his song "The Evening Prayer" had been copyrighted and it will be placed on sale. It comes as a surprise to most local people to hear that the veteran nightwatchman has written the music to a song since he has never displayed any talents along this line. The song will be sung at the Portola theater some night this week.

"The Evening Prayer" is the name of a poem written by Maria Conway Oemler and it was this which Mr. Scanlan has set to music. Mr. Scanlan read "The Evening Prayer" and was very much absorbed in it.

AMUSEMENTS

As an added attraction the Palace will show tonight and tomorrow night, "Life Behind the Bars." The scenes of the picture were taken in the Illinois State prison at Joliet and portray every phase of prison life. Each picture is fully and thoroughly explained by Margaret L. Stanton, an experienced lecturer. The pictures show the cell houses, the workshops, the famous Bertillion measuring system, the Chapel services, the escaped convict, the prisoners' holiday celebration and many other interesting scenes. The program also includes an Imp comedy entitled "His Dress Shirt." The management has secured Clarence Backus, the Connersville baritone, for Wednesday night.

The Portola will have the usual change of program tonight showing two reels of pictures. "The Ninety and Nine" is a Vitagraph film telling a story that reaches the heart and carries with it a lesson well expressed and beautifully conveyed. "The Phoney Strike Breakers" is a Kalem comedy-drama. The management has booked "The Tale of Two Cities" for a return engagement. The famous play will be the attraction on December 29 and 30. Numerous requests have been made for the return of the pictures and they will be brought back for two nights.

"The California Revolution of 1846," the first picture at the Princess tonight, is taken from the early history of the State and deals with the downfall of Juarez and the proclaiming of the Republic. The picture is a Kalem production. The other film is entitled "Grandma." A rich young mother neglects her child for the affairs of society and the baby girl is sent to live with her grandmother. The little child, yearning for mother love, finds it in the unselfish devotion of "grandma," who has to show the mother how to regain her child's love. The picture tells a very pretty story and is full of human interest. Thursday night the theater will give a benefit performance for the Santa Claus fund.

The appointment was made by Governor Marshall at the request of the organization.

The FLYING MERCURY

Ethan Ffrench opened his lips and closed them again without speech. It had not been his life's habit to let people alone and the art was acquired with difficulty.

"I admit I do not comprehend the feelings you describe," he conceded, at last. "But there is one person who has the right to decide whether David shall continue this risk of his life. Emily, do you wish the car withdrawn?"

There was a gasp from the other two men.

"It?" the young girl exclaimed, amazed. "I can call him here—safe?"

Her voice died out as Lestrange's car roared past, overtaking two rivals on the turn and sliding between them with an audacity that provoked rounds of applause from the spectators. To call him in from that, to have him safe with her—the mere thought was a delight that caught her breath. Yet, she knew Lestrange.

The three men watched her in keen suspense. The "Mercury" car had passed twice again before she raised her head, and in that space of a hundred seconds Emily reached the final unselfishness.

"What David wants," she said. "Uncle, what David wants."

"You're a brick!" cried Dick, in a passion of relief. "Emily, you're a brick!"

She looked at him with eyes he never forgot.

"If anything happens to him, I hope I die too," she answered, and drew the silk veil across her face.

"Go back, Mr. Dick, you're no good here," advised Bailey, in the pause. "I guess Miss Emily is right, Mr. Ffrench; we've got nothing to do but look on, for David Ffrench was wiped out to make Darling Lestrange."

Having left the decision to Emily, it was in character that her uncle offered no remonstrance when she disapproved his wish.

When Lestrange came into his camp for oil and gasoline, near eight o'clock, Dick seized the brief halt, the first in three hours.

"Emily's up in the stand," he announced. "Send her a word, old man; and don't get reckless in front of her."

"Emily?" echoed Lestrange, too weary for astonishment. "Give me a pencil. No, I can't take off my gauntlet; it's glued fast. I'll manage. Rupert, go take an hour's rest and send me the other mechanician."

"I can't get off my car; it's glued fast," Rupert confided, leaning over the back of the machine to appropriate a sandwich from the basket a man was carrying to the neighboring camp. "Go on with your correspondence, dearest."

So resting the card Dick supplied on the steering wheel, Lestrange wrote a difficult two lines.

He was out again on the track when Dick brought the message to Emily.

"I just told him you were here, cousin," he whispered in her ear, and dropped the card in her lap.

"I'll enjoy this more than ever, with you here," she read. "It's the right place for my girl. I'll give you the cup for our first dinner table, tonight."

"DAVID."

Emily lifted her face. The tragedy of the scene was gone, Lestrange's eyes laughing at her out of a mist. The sky was blue, the sunshine golden; the merry crowds commencing to pour into carnival in her heart.

"He said to tell you the machine was running magnificently," supplemented Dick, "and not to insult his veteran reputation by getting nervous. He's coming by—look."

He was coming by; and, although unable to look toward the grand-stand he raised his hand in salute as he passed, to the one he knew was watching. Emily flushed rosily, her dark eyes warm and shining.

"I can wait," she sighed, gratefully. "Dickie, I can wait until it ends now."

Dick went back.

The hours passed. One more car went out of the race under the grinding test; there were the usual incidents of blown-out tires and temporary withdrawals for repairs. Twice Mr. Ffrench sent his partner and Emily to the restaurant below, tolerating his seat. Perfectly composed, his expression perfectly self-contained, he watched his son.

The day grew unbearably hot toward afternoon, a heat rather of July than June. After a visit to his camp Lestrange reappeared without the suffocating mask and cap, driving bare-headed, with only the narrow goggles crossing his face. The change left visible the drawn pallor of exhaustion under stains of dust and oil, his rolled-back sleeves disclosed the crimson badge on his right arm and the fact that his left wrist was tightly wound with linen where swollen and strained muscles rebelled at the long strain.

"He's been driving for nineteen hours," said Dick, climbing up to his party through the excited crowd. "Two hours more to six o'clock. Listen to the mob when he passes!"

The injunction was unnecessary. As the sun slanted low the enthusiasm grew to fever. This was a crowd of connoisseurs—motorists, chauffeurs, automobile lovers and drivers—they knew what was being done before them. The word passed that Lestrange was in his twentieth hour; people climbed on seats to cheer him as he passed by. When one of his tires blew out, in the opening of the first hour of his driving and the twenty-fourth of the race, the great shout of sympathy and encouragement that went up shook the grand-stand to its cement foundations.

"If we did I ain't sure we'd get back," Rupert explained to Dick, who

"They're up!" cried a dozen voices. "No, one's up and one's under." "Who's caught in the wreck—Lestrange or his man?"

But before the people who surged over the track, breaking all restraint, before the electric ambulance, Dick Ffrench reached the marred thing that had been the Mercury car. It was Lestrange who had painfully struggled to one knee beside the machine, fighting hard for breath to speak.

"Take the car off Rupert," he painted, at Dick's cry of relief on seeing him. "I'm all right—take the car off Rupert."

The next instant they were surrounded, overwhelmed with eager aid. The ambulance came up and a surgeon precipitated himself toward Lestrange.

"Stand back," the surgeon commanded generally. "Are you trying to smother him? Stand back."

But it was he who halted before a gesture from Lestrange, who leaned on Dick and a comrade from the camp.

"Co over there, to Rupert."

"You first—"

"No." There was nothing to do except yield. Shrugging his shoulders, the surgeon paused the necessary moment. A moment only; there was a no protests, but he himself never left scattering of the hushed workers, a metallic crash.

From the space the car had covered a small figure uncoiled, lizard-like, and staggered unsteadily erect. "Where's Darling Lestrange?" was hurled viciously across the silence. "Gee, you're a slow bunch of workers! Where's Lestrange?"

The tumult that broke loose swept all to confusion. And after all it was Lestrange who was put in the surgeon's care, while Rupert rode back to the camp on the driver's seat of the ambulance.

"Tell Emily I'll come over to her as soon as I'm fit to look at," was the message Lestrange gave Dick. "And when you go back to the factory, have your steering-knuckles strengthened."

Dick exceeded his commission by transmitting the speech entire; repeating the first part to Emily with all affectionate solicitude, and flinging the second cuttingly at his uncle and Bailey.

"The doctors say he ought to be in bed, but he won't go," he concluded. "No, you can't see him until they get through patching him up at the hospital tent; they put every one out except Rupert. He hasn't a scratch, after having a ninety Mercury on top of him. You're to come over to our camp, Emily, and wait for Lestrange. I suppose everybody had better come."

It was a curious and an elevating thing to see Dickie assume command of his family, but no one demurred. An official, recognizing in him Lestrange's manager, cleared a way for the party through the noisy press of departing people and automobiles.

The sunset had long faded, night had settled over the motordrome and the electric lamps had been lit in the tents, before there came a stir and murmur in the Mercury camp.

"Don't skid, the ground's wet," cautioned a voice outside the door. "Steady!"

It was a curious and an elevating thing to see Dickie assume command of his family, but no one demurred. An official, recognizing in him Lestrange's manager, cleared a way for the party through the noisy press of departing people and automobiles.

"After all, you were born a Ffrench," she reminded, her soft accents just audible. "If that is your work?"

Very slowly David turned to his father.

"I never learned to do things by halves," he said. "If you want me, sir—"

And Ethan Ffrench understood, and first offered his hand.

Rupert was discovered asleep in a camp-chair outside the tent, a few

Lestrange all day; he did not lift the gauntlet.

"You are perfectly free," he conceded, "which gives you the opportunity of being generous."

His son moved, flushing through his pallor.

"I wish you would not put it that way, sir," he objected.

"There is no other way. I have been wrong and I have no control over you; will you come home?"

There was no other argument but that that could have succeeded, and the three who knew Lestrange knew that could not fail.

"You want me because I am a Ffrench," David rebelled in the final protest. "You have a substitute."

"Perhaps I want you otherwise. And we will not speak in passion; there can be no substitute for you."

"Ffrench and Ffrench," murmured Dick coaxingly. "We can run that factory, Lestrange!"

"There's more than steering-knuckles needing your eye on them. And you love the place, Mr. David," said Bailey from his corner.

From one to the other David's glance went, to rest on Emily's delicate, earnest face in its setting of yellow-brown hair. Full and straight her dark eyes answered his, the conventional Emily's answer to his pride and old resentment and new reluctance to yield his liberty.

"After all, you were born a Ffrench," she reminded, her soft accents just audible. "If that is your work?"

Very slowly David turned to his father.

"I never learned to do things by halves," he said. "If you want me, sir—"

Rupert was discovered asleep in a camp-chair outside the tent, a few minutes later, when Dick went in search of him.

"The limousine's waiting," his awakener informed him. "You don't feel bad, do you?"

The mechanician rose cautiously, wincing.

"Well, if every joint in my chassis wasn't sore, I'd feel better," he admitted grimly. "But I'm still running. What did you kiss me awake for, when I need my sleep?"

"Did you suppose we could get Lestrange home without you, Jack Rupert?"

"I ain't supposing you could. I'm ready."

The rest of the party were already in the big car, with one exception.

"Take a last look, Rupert," bade David, as he stood in the dark paddock. "We're retired; come help me get used to it."

Rupert passed a glance over the deserted track.

"I guess my sentiment-tank has given out," he sweetly acknowledged. "The Mercury factory sounds pretty good to me, Darling. And I guess we can make a joy ride out of living, on any track, if we enter for it."

"I guess we can," laughed David Ffrench. "Get in opposite Emily. We're going home to try."

State Boards Test of Milk Shows 34 Per Cent. Is Impure

Of the 1,608 samples of foodstuffs analyzed in the food and drug laboratory of the state board of health during the fiscal year ended September 30th, 562 were samples of milk, says the report of H. E. Barnard.

chief chemist of the board. The milk seizures were in a large measure based on the new state law which provides that the presence of visible dirt in milk shall constitute prima facie evidence of adulteration.

Of the total number of milk samples seized, 34 per cent were below the standard. Of this total percentage of adulteration, 158 samples contained visible dirt, and 16 per cent fell below the standards of normal milk in fat content. The samples containing visible dirt were not examined for fat content. Of the total number of samples of milk examined, 28.1 per cent. were adulterated because of the removal of cream or the addition of water. The department pronounced the condition of the milk of the state far from satisfactory. The use of preservatives, such as formaldehyde, was uncommon, only three instances of their use being found during the year. The pure milk crusade in the future, Mr. Barnard wrote, will be along the line of sanitary production, chiefly.

The following additional reports of foods and drugs were made:

Cream—Sixty-eight samples analyzed with fourteen illegal.

Butter—Fifty samples examined with fourteen illegal.

The report found that for the most part, oleomargarine is being sold for what it is. Country butter was reported of very unsatisfactory quality. One sample was found to contain 39.2 per cent. of water, or three times as much as permissible under the law. The report said that an earlier statement that the country butter of the state is a poor product still stands.

Cheese—Nine samples were analyzed, and two found illegal. Preservatives were found occasionally.

Condensed Milk—Nine samples examined with four containing less than the required amount of butter fat.

Cider Vinegar—Thirty-two samples examined with twenty failing to meet the legal requirements, either by too little acidity or solids, or by evidence of being artificial. The report says there is probably more adulteration of vinegars than any other food product on the market. Of thirteen distilled vinegars examined four were too low in acidity to be legal.

Whisky—Eighteen samples analyzed and five were found illegal, in that the alcohol was too low, and poisons were present, with the extract content far higher than that of normal whisky.

Brandy—Nine samples examined, with six illegal, due either to too low alcohol content or the use of misleading labels.

Wines—Fifteen samples examined with six illegal. One sample contained saccharin and the others were for the most part misbranded, some alleging blackberry wine, when the examination proved they were imitation products.

Beers—Ten samples were analyzed, and all were found legal. Twenty-eight temperance beers were examined and sixteen found to contain so much alcohol they were not temperance beers, as temperance beers are defined by law. All the illegal samples bore false labels as to alcoholic content.

Canned Vegetables—Thirty-five samples were examined to determine the content of tomato sauce used in the preparation. All were samples of canned beans. For the most part, the samples were of acceptable character, although some showed the presence of more yeast molds than should be found in a thoroughly satisfactory sauce.

Miscellaneous Food Products—Forty-seven samples examined, with a very small number illegal. Some ripe olives were found wormy and rotten. A sample of gelatin contained dangerous bacilli. A sample of coffee was found to contain chicory. Nearly all the samples were sent by citizens who suspected the quality of the goods.

Sodas and Summer Drinks—Fifty-eight samples were analyzed and twenty-two were found illegal because of the presence of saccharin or benzoate of soda.

Spices—Sixteen samples were examined, and in two cases adulteration was found.

Three hundred and sixty-five drug samples were analyzed, showing 43.7 per cent illegal. All samples, however, were bought because they were suspected by the field men of the State board. Many of the illegal samples were so declared because their label failed to set out the real alcoholic content, as required by law. Illegal samples were found among the following: Cocaine hydrochloride, linseed oil, essence of peppermint, spirits of camphor, oil of turpentine, peroxide of hydrogen and tincture of opium.

DIED SUDDENLY

"Acute Indigestion the Cause." How Often do we Read this Heading in our Daily Paper.

Dear reader, if your food does not digest properly, but stays in your stomach, causing much misery, shortness of breath and fermentation, you are the one that should constantly have with you a box of MI-NA stomach tablets.

Two little MI-NA tablets taken at the first sign of distress would have kept many a death notice out of the papers.

If you have stomach trouble of any kind, start to get rid of it today. One 50-cent box of MI-NA stomach tablets will make you feel like a new man. Two weeks' treatment will make you feel like a new man. Two weeks' treatment will make any abused, out of order stomach and vigorous.

Guaranteed, mind you, for indigestion, dizziness, biliousness, bad dreams. They clear the skin and brighten the eyes. A box for only 50 cents at F. B. Johnson & Co. and druggists everywhere.

The best plaster. A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Liniment and bound on over the affected parts is superior to a plaster and costs only one tenth as much. For sale by All Dealers.

ANOTHER WAY IS NOW SUGGESTED

The President Would Spare Russia's Feelings.

A MORE DIPLOMATIC PLAN

Than That Proposed in the Sulzer Resolution Is Proposed to Secure Abrogation of Treaty Which Is Being Disregarded by Czar's Government to Great Disadvantage of American Citizens Seeking Entrance Into Russia.

Washington, Dec. 18.—To consider the proposed termination of the treaty of 1832 with Russia, President Taft called a special meeting of his cabinet Sunday. The cabinet was in session at the White House proper until shortly after midnight.

The president's official family was called together for the purpose of discussing chiefly the advisability of the president sending a special message to the senate on the Russian passport question. Senator Cullom, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, has been urging the president to notify Russia of the desire of this government to terminate the treaty and then send a message to the senate informing that body of his action. Senator Cullom has contended that that would be the proper and most satisfactory course for the president to pursue.

Spices—Sixteen samples were examined, and in two cases adulteration was found.

Spices—Sixteen samples were examined, and in two cases adulteration was found.

Treaty Will Be Denounced.

All of these proposed courses take it for granted that the termination of the treaty will be authorized by the senate. There is no longer any doubt that the treaty will be denounced. In fact a member of the senate committee on foreign relations has in his possession a resolution of this kind having the backing of the administration which will be offered probably as a substitute for the offensive Sulzer resolution and will provide merely for the termination of the treaty with Russia without going into reasons in a way that would unnecessarily offend the czar's government.

It was after receiving this conflicting advice that Mr. Taft assembled the members of his cabinet at the White House Sunday night. The impression prevails among persons who have talked with Mr. Taft and his advisers that the president will send a communication to the senate recommending that the treaty be terminated. Accompanying this message to the senate will also probably be a letter to Senator Cullom pointing out that the treaty is obsolete but urging the importance of terminating it in a way that will give the least possible offense to Russia. The president in his letter will probably point out the extreme friendly relations that have existed between this country and Russia and the importance of preserving them.

If the president and the senate attempt to terminate the Russian treaty on the authority of a senate resolution not concurred in by the house, there is certain to be a stubborn debate in both houses over the propriety of the proceedings.

Members of congress who are eager to have the treaty terminated with the least possible disturbance of our present friendly relations with Russia are fearful that any attempt to ignore the house of representatives in this matter will lead to further agitation and bitter expressions which will be deeply resented in Russia. Such action by the senate and the president also will tend to inject a further element of politics into the situation.

"The Men and Religious Forward Movement," Dr. House continued, "is not to burden men and the church but is to crystallize the force already here. It is to draw on the dynamic force of Christian manhood. Men's brotherhoods and bible classes which have had the same mission have not accomplished what they should."

He asserted that a similar movement had never been planned on the globe and if properly carried out it will do the greatest work ever accomplished. He pointed out that world can't be saved by saving the men and women alone.

He asked why the church had not done the work which the Movement is setting about to do and his answer was because men have left the work to be done by the women and the preachers. "Shame on us! Shame on us!" was his comment.

This condition he said, has resulted in the development of things in the church. He observed that no such thing as exchanges, church bazaars, rummage sales or similar enterprises were conducted in this city as they are in Indianapolis. There was a murmur in the audience and he was informed by the expressions on men's faces and their exclamations that such things do exist here. He declared they are absolutely wrong but that the fault lies with the men who permit the church finances to be in such a shape that women should resort to such tactics to get money.

He deplored the fact that hymn and prayer books are used for exploiting business and that advertisements take up positions in such books which should be held sacred. He recalled a statement which James E. Watson had made in a speech in a southern Indiana town when he was candidate for governor. Dr. House said that men are too much inclined to impose on preachers or expect them to do the work that is their.

The physicians pointed out that most men draw a distinct line between their business and church duties. He declared that it is impossible to separate the church and business. There are three classes of men, according to Mr. House: The real true blue men who are twice born and who pray every day; the business men who delegate the church work to their wives and talk about "my church" and pay a little but never pray; and the third class, the men who are leading a dual life. He asserted that there are too many of the latter class.

"It is the purpose of the Men and Religion Forward Movement to make men clean up," he said. It is also to bring back men who once belonged to church and who have drifted away and enlist them in the cause of Jesus Christ. If men are wrong they can not work in this business. It is my firm conviction the religion of Jesus Christ is the greatest thing ever undertaken."

men know whether or not there is need for such a work as that here."

Mr. Brewer recalled a recent visit to French Lick and wondered that Indiana's governor should allow such a gambling joint to operate in open violation of the law. He also spoke of the Movement's work in Des Moines, Iowa, how it caused the city to be cleaned up and the tainted officials to resign and give over their work to fearless men who enforced the law.

He paused to remark that the Devil had already shown his hand against the Movement. He said that the report sent broadcast that the Movement was financed by Wall street in order to counteract Socialism and union labor was false. He said that the money needed to defray the expenses of the organization was furnished by western men and he named some men who have donated liberally for the cause.

Mr. Brewer said the evangelistic and boys' work were important phases of the Movement. He declared that it is the duty of men to save souls and not the preachers. Mr. Brewer said that saving the boys meant to save the nation of the future.

He said all that is expected of Rushville is to organize Rush county for the movement. He pointed out that after the first periods had been passed through the eight day campaign would reap rewards and would be productive of a great moral uplift.

In this campaign speakers will be sent here from Indianapolis.

John A. Tisworth presided at the meeting and introduced the speakers. Dr. F. R. McClanahan led the singing.

R. E. Brewer gave a very intelligent review of the purpose of the Movement. He said that it doesn't seek to create any new organization or tear down any but seeks to exalt the church of God. He asked if any better work could be done than that of upholding the preachers.

Mr. Brewer took occasion to say that the man who spoke before a lodge meeting in Crawfordsville recently and assailed the church told partly the truth and partly a lie. He asserted that the lodges were not exerting more influence for food than the church and added that men have not supported the church else it would have accomplished what the lodges have. He recalled that a friend of his, whose pockets were picked of all the money he had after he arrived in Kansas City, could not find a member of his own lodge who would certify to one of his checks so it could be cashed. His friend remembered the name of a man affiliated with his church and went to him and found a friend who willingly did what he wanted.

"The Movement," he said, "is to make the badge of the church one of honor. This is the avenue by which it is proposed to lead men to the church. There is a fearful lack of knowledge of the Bible among men and it is the intent of the Movement to induce men to study it. The study of the Bible helps, broadens and also makes men charitable.

"The social service object is one which is of vital importance. It is the purpose of this branch of the work to clean up. We hope in Indianapolis to do away with objectional and suggestive advertising, close illegal joints and bawdy houses. You anapolis would have a great work to do in cleaning up the city and making it a better place in which to live.

Dr. House described the wonderful origination of the Men and Religious Forward Movement as was done in more detail by the Rev. W. H. Wylie in his sermon at a union meeting at the Christian church two weeks ago. He said he would have chosen another home for the organization and that it would have been men and religion moving forward. He pointed out that sometimes men and religion moves but not forward. He declared that the Movement is to accomplish something and that it was born of God through prayer. Dr. House believes it came through divine inspiration and looks upon it as he did the people centuries ago upon the coming of Christ and the three wise men. Since it is born of prayer, he said, men of prayer should take hold of it.
